Subject: Microsoft settlement

I cannot understand why Microsoft is being let off so easily. If there was more competition we would have much more reliable operating systems to use. I feel the settlement doesn't go far enough to impose just penalties on Microsoft, and they'll go back to their old ways of crushing competition, which is bad for American business. I feel they should open up their APIs and early access programs to all developers, not just those they want to with, as that is unfair competition.

Sincerely
Armand Mathieu
